"Present turns to past and future turns to present, but the past never changes its stance..." What we do in the present is not a big deal, but after it has gone into the past, it will become something memorable. In our past we had done so many nonsensical things, but now when we remember those days a smile comes to our lips. "Our present is like watching a horror film, and our past is like the experience that we enjoyed in the cinema hall." Words of the past: the story is about a person, who even after completing his graduation didn't gain any sense about his future. Seasons have changed but he still didn't get any idea. Like others he has a life too, like others he too enjoyed his life, but not like others. He went back to his past. His school, his college, his nonsense's, his crushes, his friends, his girls, his enjoyment, silly fights, and his past life... These thoughts made sense to him. "Life means some of years, emotions and notorious things. Behind everything a strange emotional experience will be present." His sensible thoughts on his past make sense to him. So he decided to make it into a book. He made his past into a book. Are you ready to recollect your past?

About the Book: An unlettered boy is uprooted from his blessed countryside, and planted in a small city. He recalls some of the challenges and qualms of settling into an alien environment made up of sophisticated people. He reminisces about his relationships with some unique, and interesting personalities who made a great impression on him, and helped shape him into being an idealist. The writer relates a series of his life events that give him sweet sensations, and occasional shudders, in the lonely hours of the night. These events are marked by fun and fear, pain and pleasure, delight and despair, glory and humiliation, struggle and escape, anxiety and comfort, and above all, by his hopes and dreams. About the Author: Educated in India and the UK, Saulat Abbas hails from Bulandhshar, a city near Delhi. He is an English teacher who is not only an ardent lover of literature, but is also a keen and enthusiastic traveler. Currently working at the King Abdulaziz University in Jeddah, Saudi Arabia, Saulat Abbas has been teaching for over 25 years in many countries, including India, Malaysia, Taiwan, and the UAE. He excels at translations, but has recently started creative and expository writing. Apart from reading and writing, Saulat Abbas has a passion for globe-trotting, and exploring world cultures which have clearly impacted his life and work.

The author talks about simplicity of children and education in contrast to the present complex system that complicates a child's mind. Ruskin Bond wrote his first short story, 'Untouchable', at the age of sixteen, and has written memorable fiction ever since. He is famous not only for his love of the hills, but for imbuing the countryside with life and vibrancy through moving descriptions. The simple people who inhabit his stories evoke sympathy and laughter in equal measure. This wonderful collection of seventy stories, including classics like 'A Face in Dark', 'The Kitemaker', 'The Tunnel', 'The Room of Many Colours', 'Dust on the Mountain' and 'Times Stops at Shamli', is a must-have for any bookshelf.

"Report of the Dominion fishery commission on the fisheries of the province of Ontario, 1893", issued as vol. 26, no. 7, supplement.

Zakes Mda is the most acclaimed South African writer of the independence era. His eight novels tell stories that venture far beyond the conventional narratives of a people's struggle against apartheid. In this memoir, he tells the story of a life that intersects with the political life of his country but that at its heart is the classic adventure story of an artist, lover, father, teacher, and bon vivant. Zanemvula Mda was born in 1948 into a family of lawyers and grew up in Soweto's ambitious educated black class. At age fifteen he crossed the Telle River from South Africa into Basutoland (Lesotho), exiled like his father, a "founding spirit" of the Pan Africanist Congress. Exile was hard, but it was just another chapter in Mda's coming-of-age. He served as an altar boy (and was preyed on by priests), flirted with shebeen girls, feared the racist Boers, read comic books alongside the literature of the PAC, fell for the music of Dvorák and Coltrane, wrote his first stories—and felt the void at the heart of things that makes him an outsider wherever he goes. The Soweto uprisings called him to politics; playwriting brought him back to South Africa, where he became writer in residence at the famed Market Theatre; three marriages led him hither and yon; acclaim brought him to America, where he began writing the novels that are so thick with the life of his country. In all this, Mda struggled to remain his own man, and with Sometimes There Is a Void he shows that independence opened the way for the stories of individual South Africans in all their variety.

Castles in the Air is an attempt to open discussions on some often overlooked issues which affect education, particularly in rural and township government schools. In order to make it a truly South African drama, I have drawn from oral tradition by including songs and poems which play an integral part in traditional storytelling. There are many folksongs which were included in earlier versions, but I decided to remove them in the final version because I did not intend to write a musical. There are also some praise poems that I composed for the main character and his father. I studied oral tradition, and I am confident that the praise poems I composed have all the qualities of the real praise poems, and because I could not compose them in English, I, therefore, wrote them in isiZulu with translations in the glossary at the end.
