Carceral logics permeate our thinking about humans and nonhumans. We imagine that greater punishment will reduce crime and make society safer. We hope that more convictions and policing for animal crimes will keep animals safe and elevate their social status. The dominant approach to human-animal relations is governed by an unjust imbalance of power that subordinates or ignores the interest nonhumans have in freedom. In this volume Lori Gruen and Justin Marceau invite experts to provide insights into the complicated intersection of issues that arise in thinking about animal law, violence, mass incarceration, and social change. Advocates for enhancing the legal status of animals could learn a great deal from the history and successes (and failures) of other social movements. Likewise, social change lawyers, as well as animal advocates, might learn lessons from each other about the interconnections of oppression as they work to achieve liberation for all. There is a great deal of information on the native peoples of the United States, which exists largely in national publications. Since much of Native American history occurred before statehood, there is a need for information on Native Americans of the region to fully understand the history and culture of the native peoples that occupied Georgia and the surrounding areas. Encyclopedia of Georgia Indians fills this void that exists in many library collections. Articles on tribes and nations indigenous to, or associated with, the state and region are included in this work. Biographies, daily life and general subject articles of Native Americans are included in this unique set.

Many recorded Indian Treaties with the government of the United States from as early as the 1700s are also included in this work.

The first section is contains an overview of early history of the state and region. The second section contains an A to Z dictionary of tribal articles and biographies of noteworthy Native Americans that have contributed to the history of Mississippi. The third section contains several selections from the classic book, A Century of Dishonor, which details the history of broken promises made to the tribes throughout the country during the early history of America. The fourth section offers the publishers opinion on the government dealings with the Native Americans, in addition to a summation of government tactics that were used to achieve the suppression of the Native Americans.

State governors have always played a key role in American politics, as the careers of Presidents Clinton, Reagan, and Carter illustrate. This is particularly the case in the aftermath of Reaganomics and the shift of many functions from the federal to the state government. This volume, which covers the period 1988-1994, is the latest in a series of colonial, territorial, and state governors from 1607 onward. It is organized alphabetically by state with biographical sketches of the governors appearing in chronological order of their terms of office. The 94 sketches contain information on date and place of birth, education, religion, marriage and family, and an analysis of each governor's professional and political careers. Every entry contains a photograph of the governor and concludes with a bibliography. The volume ends with an index of the governors' names.

This thesis looks at the origins of the Common School in Pennsylvania, with a focus on the efforts of two men involved in their implementation: Roberts Vaux and Governor George Wolf.

York experienced great changes following World War II. People began moving from the city to the suburbs, and many department stores, like Bear's, Wiest's, Jack's, and Gregory's, closed. Long-standing companies such as AMF and York Air Conditioning were sold or moved, while banks, industries, and businesses merged. The York County Shopping Center opened on the East End, attracting customers who had formerly shopped downtown. WSBA TV went on the air in 1952, starting a new era in communication and a business empire that still has a strong presence today. The band Live grew from a group of local high school students to well-known musicians that graced the cover of Rolling Stone. Jeff Koons became one of the most celebrated artists in the world, Kim Bracey became the first African American mayor, and York businessman Tom Wolf became governor. York continues to celebrate its rich heritage as the "Factory Capital of the World."

Vol. 1 has pictorial section which includes portraits of Native Americans from all areas of the United States and illustrations of Native American daily life.

Policymakers are recognizing that Pennsylvania has fallen behind in providing equitable access to high quality early childhood education. Governor Tom Wolf ran on a campaign promise of universal pre-k access and proposed an unprecedented budget increase for early childhood programs in 2016. In Philadelphia, Mayor Jim Kenney has made pre-k a cornerstone of his education agenda and successfully lobbied City Council to pass a soda tax to fund it. But not all early childhood education is created equal. As policymakers push for expanded access, they must also ensure that Pennsylvania's "Quality Ratings and Improvement System" (QRIS) defines and measures quality in a meaningful and rigorous way, and provides adequate support to early childhood education providers. To this end, the Pennsylvania Office of Child Development and Early Learning (OCDEL) has embarked on an effort to refine Keystone STARS, the state's QRIS for early childhood education. In this brief, Research For Action (RFA) explores existing research on the "quality characteristics" of early childhood education programs that improve child outcomes, outlines ways in which the state's QRIS can be refined to better evaluate and promote these quality characteristics, and highlights important policy considerations for local and state leaders seeking to expand access to quality early learning programs.

Capital punishment is a controversial sentence reserved for the worst of the worst crimes. State citizens and legislatures have addressed the use of the death penalty in different ways. To mitigate capital punishment, governors have been granted the power to issue clemency for inmates in the criminal justice system. This clemency power is an essential component of the executive ' s ability to ensure checks and balances between the three branches of government. This report investigates the overlapping relationship between a governor ' s ability to affect the death penalty through acts of clemency. Four Governors in the United States have issued death penalty moratoriums in the recent years: Oregon Governor Kitzhaber in 2011, Colorado Governor Hickenlooper in 2013, Washington Governor Jay Inslee in 2014, and Pennsylvania Governor Tom Wolf in 2015. This analysis investigates the constitutional basis for governors ' issuance of sweeping moratoriums to better understand the scope of gubernatorial clemency power. Furthermore, this investigation argues that these moratoriums are not an overreach of gubernatorial clemency powers and fall within the scope of clemency powers.

The facts show that Democrats believe nothing unless CNN & all the liberal media outlets tells them it is so. Have you heard one true story about election fraud and corruption executed by the bad actors in the corrupt battle ground states of Arizona, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Wisconsin, Nevada, Georgia, & Wisconsin? Yes, I know the picture on the front-cover is not 2020. If you found that, you will enjoy the book. Surely, unless you get your news from CNN, you know that in December, the State of Texas challenged results in Georgia, Pennsylvania, Michigan and Wisconsin because of corruption but the chicken-hearted high court scaredy cats were too afraid of Antifa and BLM to take the case so they claimed that Texas did not have standing to bring the case.

Bulldinky! The four states that Texas sued clearly used unconstitutional means to steal the election for Biden and it affected every citizen of the US in every state. Moreover, if the Supremes took the case, they would have discovered enough fraud to overturn the elections in all four states giving Trump more than the 270 electoral votes as necessary for the win. The Supremes protected their own butts by making no decision. They punted leaving America in the lurch. We do not need chickens in the Supreme Court. We are better off with Turkeys than lily livered chickens. Pennsylvania Republican lawmakers whose observers were excluded from observing after extensive analysis found "troubling" discrepancies. These were widely reported. Democrats were happy with the results and remained MIA in the foray. There were discrepancies between the numbers of total votes counted and total number of voters who voted in the 2020 election. This is an impossibility yet it stands. One must ask how the results could have been certified by Pennsylvania's Governor Tom Wolf and Secretary of the Commonwealth Kathy Boockvar. Heck, they won. That explains it. Attorney Sidney Powell explained what went down in PA on Election night. "The very night of the election many people saw something they had never seen before in the history of our elections. They saw votes being changed on the screen in front of them, going from President Trump to Mr. Biden. Life in America will never be the same if this goes without a stand. Biden is not the president. The overriding recommendation in this book is for conservatives to use leftist playbooks and play like Biden is not the president. He is not our president. Then, every Republican in Congress and the Senate who turned his back on conservatives needs to be replaced in the primary. We need to replace RINOS with patriotic Americans. The time has come for America to create the American MAGA Party

At the heart of seven converging roads, Bath is the hub of Northampton County. Consisting of a tannery, a gristmill, two stores, and five dwellings in 1816, Bath evolved into a bustling town with over 175 shops, tradesmen, and professionals. Featured among the more than 200 historic photographs are a rare 1700s map of the Scotch-Irish settlement, Moses George Cigar Factory workers, the shops on the West Main Street Bridge, devastation from the 1945 flood, workers picking celery in the fields, and Miss Bath 1962.
